McCUMBER GAINS FAVOR

Reports Coming in From Various Parts of the State Show
He Is GainingFAVOR McCUMBER.
Napoleon N. D., April 14.—
Logan county sentiment, as expressed in the district convention and elsewhere, is favorable to Senator McCumber. There is some Gronna sentiment in McIntosh county.Conventions will be held in most legislative districts in the state tomorrow for the purpose of selecting delegates to the "real Republican" convention to be held in Jamestown on Wednesday, April 19. The convention call is by legislative districts.
Since Burleigh county is a legislative district in itself the convention becomes a county convention.The Burleigh county meeting will be called to order at the courthouse at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, with 115 delegates entitled to sit in the convention, according to call. Of this number 62 are from the city of Bismarck. The convention here will endorse a legislative ticket, but is not expected to endorse any candidates for county offices. The only legislative candidates thus far in the field are L. E. Heaton and Victor Anderson, for renomination, and P. G. Harrington, endorsed by service men.As reports come in from various parts of the state there apparently is a strong drift toward support for Senator McCumber. Many of his opponents have frankly expressed surprise at the widespread demand for support for him for renomination and re-election to the senate. His strength in cities where professional politicians have been utter against him
has been unusual.Farmers Supporting McCumber.
Senator McCumber, these reports indicate, is drawing support mainly from two classes at this time, business men and farmers. Business men believe that his ability and power in the senate makes it imperative upon the state to retain him in the senate,
not only for the good he may do North Dakota and the Northwest but also because he is an able supporter of the Harding administration. Republicans frankly expect reverses in many of the states in the east where the normal Republican margin over the Democrats is small, or where in the last presidential election Republicans carried states normally Democratic.Many farmers coming to the city cause he has been a consistent advocate of the interests of the farmer
during his long service. The tariff bill reported out by Senator McCumber's finance committee has already caused walls from some eastern states
because it is claimed the Northwest farmers are given more protection in this measure than ever before. A banker in a town in Western North Dakota, who is for Senator McCumber, gives this explanation of the recent seed loan bill.The banker said down and wrote his representative in Congress saying that the condition of the western part of the state was such that there must be an appropriation for seed loans. The representative wrote back stating that it was the policy of Congress to discourage such appropriations at this time and because of the financial condition he said it was almost hopeless
to get a seed loan bill through.
The banker wrote Senator McCumber. The latter replied he had received reports of conditions here and he was convinced it was the duty of the government to provide seed loans again this year. He promised that a bill would be passed appropriating at least $1,500,000 for that purpose.
The bill was passed.Reports available at Grand Forks indicate that a majority of the predicted delegates elected in Grand Forks county are anti-McCumber and that they will control the three legislative district conventions in Grand Forks county.At the precinct caucuses in Beach,
Golden Valley county, last night,
solid state administration delegates to the county convention were elected, and the probabilities are that the Golden Valley county delegation to the state convention will be for continuance of the Nestos administration first, and that it will be uninstructed on the senatorship, but will insist "on pledges for work in agricultural interests by any senator receiving its support."In the McHenry county Republican conventions at Velva yesterday, representative of both legislative districts in the county, seven delegates elected are understood to be out of sympathy with the plan to endorse Senator Mc-Cumber. The delegates are John C.
Thorpe of Velva, C. H. Burch of Drake, M. E. Olson of Guthrie, Horace Bailey of Towler, A. V. Swanson of Granville, and Mrs. H. M. Nelson of Velva.The conventions endorsed Senator E. H. Kendall for re-election in the 34th district and L. A. Rolag for the house and S. I. Knudson for the house in the 45th district.E. B. Page of Leeds has announced that he is a candidate for the state senate in Benson county.In the Sargent county Republican convention held at Forman yesterday, F. E. Ellingson of Havana, and L. E. Cole of Cogswell, were endorsed for the house of representatives, the

FIGHT LOOMS
ON NAVY BILL"Little Navy" Men Seek To Force VoteHARDING FOR $6,000
Washington, April 14.—President Harding is understood to have sent a letter to the capital urging that the naval enlisted personnel be not reduced below $6,000.Changing their plans at the last moment house members leading the movement for an enlisted personnel of $6,000 made no attempt to force over until next week a vote on the contested sections.
Indications were the vote would be taken tomorrow.Washington, April 14.—House members leading the fight for an $6,000
enlisted force amendment to the navy bill lost in efforts today to prevent a vote on it tomorrow when a big part of the membership will be absent from Washington.Claiming either enough strength to win today or next week big navy men advised they would attempt to bring about adjournment over the week end and if failing in that would prolong debate on early sections of the bill
so as to make it impossible to demand a vote on the enlisted provisions tomorrow.ONE DIES IN

WITH MR. HULLRegarding the visit of Chairman Cordell Hull, Democratic national chairman, to Bismarck Sunday, Attorney-General Johnson, state chairman, who had invited Mr. Hull to be his guest, has received a letter from Mr. Hull in which the latter says:"I, of course do not contemplate any meeting of Democrats, or even any conference on account of the fact that the day will be Sunday. Should any leading or other Democrats happen to be nearby and feel disposed to come in and shake hands, I shall be glad to meet him or her, socially, but as I say, not for the purpose or with any view of political conference."H. H. Perry, National Committeeman, in a letter received by Mr. Johnson yesterday, says that Mr. Hull advised Mr. Perry on April 14th, "that he would not undertake to hold a conference of Democrats at Bismarck."It is understood, Mr. Johnson said, that a few Democrats will be in Bismarck to pay their respects socially to Mr. Hull.FISHER ENTERS

nounced he would be a candidate for renomination of clerk of district court.

HUNGRY EYES ON AMERICAN GOLDGenoa, April 14.—(Notes on Economic Conference by the Associated Press.)—Europe's financial tangle was brought to the front
for consideration at today's session of the Genoa conference, further discussion of Russian affairs having been postponed until tomorrow.Among the various types of visitors at the economic conference here are many Utopians who dream of seeing one day a United States of Europe.ANOTHER LIFE
IN TRAGEDYWidow of Slain Man Leaps
From WindowNew York, April 14.—Another tragedy growing out of the sensational murder of Dr. Abraham Glickstein by Mrs. Lillian Hansen in Brooklyn last December was recorded today when his widow, Mrs. Anna Glickstein, ended her life by leaping from the third story of her mother's home in Brooklyn. The doctor's mother dropped dead at her funeral.Mrs. Glickstein had been laboring under a heavy mental strain since her husband had been shot. Members of the family indicated it was said she had been brooding over the recent acquittal of Olivia Stone for the murder of Ellis Guy Kincaid, former Cincinnati lawyer.Four of these foundlings—Francis (left), Dobert (right) and two others—
she presented to her husband as her own.
She said two of the children—twins—were children of Libbey and that the other two were her children by a previous marriage.
Libbey (below), a high-salaried salesman, has told his wife, declaring that she was guilty of the trickery only because she wanted to satisfy his love for children.INDIANS WANT BARGAIN KEPTClaim Government Has Not Maintained Its TreatyThe Yanktonais Indians want the government to live up to its treaty with them.Chief Shoot Holy, Feather Necklace
and His Road, of the Standing Rock Indian agency, visited the capitol
with Major A. B. Welch, of Mandan, to enlist aid of Governor Nestos. The Governor being at Minot to address a teachers' organization, the Indians put in several hours visiting the capitol,
and for the dictation of the capitol
girls donned their full tribal war dresses."The Yanktonais, a division of the Sioux, ranged in a territory bounded on the north by a line from Washburn, on the Missouri, east to the James river, the James river on the east and the Missouri river on the west," said Major Welch. "The government made a treaty with them calling for payments of money to be made. The government has not kept its promises, and the Indian bureau does not answer
their letters."HERE IS BIRD
OF A STORYGeneva, April 14.—Seizure of a Swiss peasant's baby by a huge bird identified as a condor is chronicled
by the Oberlander Volks Zeitung.
The mother left the child sitting on a blanket on the grass. Her husband, seeing the condor swoop down and lift the infant into the air, shot the bird which fell slowly so that the youngster was only slightly injured.
The condor had a wing spread of 17 feet, 5 inches and a beak 16 1-2 inches long.HARDING SIGNS

Indianapolis, April 14.—With the end today of the second week of the national-wide suspension of work in the coal industry, interests at union headquarters were centered in the progress of enlisting more non-union workers in the walk-out. The total of 625,000 idle miners claimed by the union showed a gain of more than 25,000
during the week.AUTO PARTY STONED
Pittsburgh, Pa., April 14.—Indications that union organizers are making progress in the Westmoreland county coke regions were found in reports reaching union headquarters here.A report from Connellsville, in the heart of the region last night, told of the stoning of an automobile party of organizers by a crowd of miners' women relatives. The union men, it was said, left town without accomplishing their purpose of lining up the non-union coke workers.NORTHWEST N. D.

STATE INDEBTED TO TEACHERS, SAYS NESTOS

Many Prominent Speakers Address Educational Meeting At Minot

THREE DAY PROGRAM

Minot, N. D., April 12.—The founders of North Dakota expected much of the educational system they installed, Governor R. A. Nestos told the teachers of the Northwestern Division of the North Dakota State Teachers association here last night and the teachers of today are doing much to realize the dreams of the builders, he added.

"The main theme of your three days' program is, 'the contribution of education to the life of the state,'" said the governor, "and as a representative of the state, I want to say that the contribution of the educational forces of the state has been very great. The state is greatly indebted to you, and if you remain loyal to your highest educational standards, your contribution to the future progress of the state will be equally great."

"That it was the expectation of the men who established our state that in our education life we should make practical adaptation of the truths learned in our investigations, and in the arts and sciences, to the problems of our daily life and to the promotion of our economic independence is quite apparent. It is evident that they believed that learning and labor should go together. I call your attention especially to section 151 of the constitution which says: 'The legislative assembly shall take such other steps as may be necessary to prevent illiteracy, secure a reasonable degree of uniformity in the course of study, and to promote industrial, scientific and agricultural improvements.' This I believe the schools have sought to do, and thus made our education development contribute greatly to the agricultural and economic progress of our commonwealth."

Live More Largely.

"The greatest contribution of education to the life of the state is the teaching of our people to live more

ARE YOU A MOTHER?

This is of Vital Import to You.
Winona, Minn.—"During my first expectant period I got in a very weakened and nervous condition. My mother advised me to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. The first bottle strengthened me so that I continued its use. I took four bottles which not only built me up in strength but I had practically no suffering. I am most enthusiastic in my praise of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription as a tonic and nerve for the expectant mother and am glad to send this letter for publication."—Mrs. J. S. Davis, 423 E. largely; to find a broader expression for all their powers; to increase their capacity for enjoyment and happiness, and to intensify their desire to render service. How barren is life unless a person has learned to appreciate the value of the good, the true, and the beautiful in life? And how essential that the agency which is doing so much to increase that appreciation, should be encouraged and rewarded. "In this process, experience has shown that men are the more certain of achieving lasting happiness if they develop certain traits of character which have been found to lie at the foundation of every successful and happy life. This fact was realized by the founders of our state, and in section 157 of the Constitution they say: 'A high degree of intelligence, patriotism, integrity and morality on the part of every voter in a government by the people and the happiness and prosperity of the people, the legislative assembly shall make provision for the establishment and maintenance of a system of public schools which shall be open to all children of North Dakota, and free from sectarian control.' This shows plainly that the pioneers in our civil and educational life understood the province and value of the ideal public school, and realized the importance of thus early establishing the desired trend of our educational thought and development."

"Yet further extending this thought section 149 of the constitution as reiterated and amplified in section 1389 of the compiled laws, says: 'Moral instruction tending to impress upon the minds of the pupils the importance of truthfulness, temperance, purity, public spirit, patriotism, international peace, obedience to parents, due deference to old age, and respect for honest labor, shall be given for each teacher in the public schools.'"

THE Studebaker LIGHT-SIX will appeal to every buyer who wants a low-priced car that will be satisfactory in performance, appearance, comfort and endurance.

And in addition to its recognized superiority in these essentials, the LIGHT-SIX carries refinements found only on more expensive cars.

The LIGHT-SIX is equipped with cowl ventilator operated from the instrument board; cowl parking lights; inside and outside door handles and large rectangular plate-glass window in rear curtain. A thief-proof transmission lock, which reduces the rate of insurance to LIGHT-SIX owners 15 to 20 per cent, and cord tires are also standard equipment.

Long, semi-elliptic springs (50-inch in rear; 36-inch in front) and soft, genuine leather upholstered cushions, nine inches deep, provide unusual comfort. Its 40-horsepower motor delivers ample power for the hard pull. And vibration is practically eliminated by Studebaker's method of machining the crankshaft and connecting rods.

The intrinsic value of the LIGHT-SIX is unmatched at anywhere near the price because Studebaker does not skimp on materials or workmanship but uses the best. It is built complete in the most modern and complete automobile plant in the world, making possible its low price of $1045, f. o. b. factory.

CONVENTION OF COUNTY TO BE HELD SATURDAY

Republicans cooperating with the Democrats in such endorsement.

The delegates to state convention are uninstructed, but the county convention was understood to be controlled by McCumber interests. The following delegates were named: A. B. Carlson, Cogswell, A. W. Eastman, Milnor, Nils Peterson, Gwiner; H. J. Pfeiffer, Havana; J. P. Gunderson, Forman; Peter Webber, Cayuga; John Fladon, Rutland and L. F. Sanderson, Rutland.

The Republican caucuses held in Dickinson yesterday resulted in the election of McCumber delegates to the county convention. Democrats of Stark county yesterday elected the following uninstructed delegates to their state convention:

E. J. Hughes, R. V. Bouiger, J. H. Cain, A. C. Pagenkopf, J. J. Sweeney, J. J. Kelly, T. F. Murtha, and E. A. Lillibridge.

In the McIntosh and Logan county Legislative district held at Wishek P. T. Kretschmar was endorsed for state senator, getting 41 votes to 20 cast for John Wishek. M. W. Kelly of Napoleon, Christian Geisler of Gackle, and M. Henne of Zealand, were endorsed for the house. McIntosh delegates to the Jamestown Republican convention elected are: P. T. Kretschmar, Michael Henne, John Bellen, J. H. Wishek, A. W. Herr, L. Ruben and John J. Doyle.

Logan county delegates are: Gottlieb Geisler, M. W. Kelly, Gottfried Leischnor, A. A. Lehr, and Chas. Horne. Neither delegation is instructed. Logan again conceded the state senatorship to McIntosh where a three-cornered contest arose between Wishek, Kretschmar and Doyle. As the up-shot the matter was referred to the full convention.

Richland county Republican conventions are expected to elect McCumber delegates. Wahpeton and Lidgerwood named McCumber delegates to the local conventions.

Under the heading "Finish the Job," the Fargo Forum has the following to say about the Jamestown convention: "Some clear thinking on the part of independent Republicans of the state is needed between now and the date of the Jamestown convention."

"Fundamentals must not be lost sight of in the heat of factional differences."

"What should be the fundamental aim of the Republican party in North Dakota?"

"Shouldn't it be to finish the job begun at the recall election?"

"Isn't that the first essential?"

"To finish the job means the election of an independent state ticket from governor down, and the control of both houses of the legislature."

"Thanks to the splendid record made to date by the Nestos administration, the situation in regard to the state ticket looks most promising. Mr. Nestos and the ticket he heads should be victorious by a much bigger margin than that given them last fall."

"The situation in regard to the legislature is much more uncertain. It will be close unless the defection from the league is much more pronounced than anyone has reason to count on. It will call for a hard fight, and the nomination of clean, high class candidates if the independents are to remain in control of the house and capture the senate."

"Surely there can be no disagreement between the various factions of independent Republicans in regard to either state ticket or the legislative contests."

"In regard to the senatorial fight which is reaching a rather acute stage, the Nonpartisan league set a good example to the independent Republicans of the state in party discipline."

"Members of the league came to Fargo apparently hopelessly divided on the question of candidates and methods. For two days they fought out their differences. But when they reached a decision everyone swallowed his pride and accepted that decision."

WORK STOPPED AT SO. DAKOTA MINE IN NO. DAK.

Pierre, S. D., April 14.—Work at the South Dakota owned mine at Haynes, N. D., has been temporarily suspended on account of the general coal miners' strike but there have been no disturbances in the vicinity of the mine nor are any expected, according to Earl Roush, superintendent, who was in conference at the capitol.

Ample warning had been given of the impending strike, Mr. Roush said and everything had been put in orderly shape and out of the weather before the men quit. At the appointed hour the men simply put away their tools and walked out with no more disturbance than if they had been quitting a day's work.

Mr. Roush would not discuss the strike situation beyond expressing belief that the state would not suffer as a result. Questioned as to the probable length of time the mine would be closed, the superintendent said that he "expected soon" after his return to Haynes to post a new schedule of wages at which the miners could return to work if they saw fit. This new schedule, he intimated, would be somewhat lower than the old one, just how much he did not say.

DISCOVERS NEW USE FOR RADIO

Chicago, Ill., April 14.—Surgeon General Hugh S. Cumming of the United States Public Health Service, Washington, has discovered a new use for radio and has already begun a campaign to radio "fans" in National Hospital Day, May 12. Two messages informing the million or more radio listeners of the desire of the 3,000 hospitals of the United States to tell the people more about their functions and services already have been broadcast by the powerful government transmitting station, and others are in course of preparation, including a bulletin based on President Harding's recent letter urging the country to participate in National Hospital Day. This is the first time the vast interest in radiophones has been utilized to promote an educational movement, according to word received by Matthew O. Toole, executive secretary National Hospital Day Committee, Chicago, with whom the U. S. P. H. S. is cooperating.

CLAIMS SMALLEST THEATER IN U. S.

Ypsilanti, Mich., April 14.—Ypsilanti claims the smallest theater in the country, one of the oldest of its kind anywhere and one that is regarded as a unique example of the "Little Theater Movement."

The theatrical club was started seven years ago with fifteen members for a study of the drama. The organization has developed to a point where it occupies national prominence among supporters of the "Little Theater Movement."

The chief object of the club at its inception was to provide entertainment for its members. After the first year the society purchased a small barn here and remodeled it into a playhouse. The same building is in use at present. The auditorium has a seating capacity of 60 persons and is but 12 by 18 feet in dimensions, with a small balcony constructed from part of what formerly was a haymow. The stage has a depth of 25 feet and a proscenium arch nine by 15 feet.

CONAN DOYLE, SPIRITUALIST, TO "RAID" U. S.

Distinguished Author, on Stepping Ashore, Declared He Had "Learned The Truth"

TO TOUR LARGE CITIES

New York, April 14.—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, creator of the materialistic Sherlock Holmes, but now a sincere believer in things spiritual, arrived here last night to "raid" America.

"I propose to make a raid on American skepticism," he said in explaining the purpose of his proposed lecture tour. "I propose to raid church and laity alike."

Stepping on American shores for the first time in seven years, the distinguished author declared he had "learned the truth."

Spiritualism today, said Sir Arthur, is nothing but religion. It is a greater religion than anything we have ever known. Fifty years from today this world is going to be a spiritual world, in which leaders of thought are going to laugh at our puny attempts to fathom the future.

Says Dead Are Happier.

"Spiritualism teaches a definite knowledge of the life after so-called death. It teaches us not to fear death and that the passing of heart beats is merely a promotion."

"You see, a so-called dead man goes to a happier plane, there is no crime, no sorrow, and it is many, many times happier. You always have a difficult task proving to a man on that plane that he, not you, is really dead."

"But suppose a man passes who has been something of an unsavory individual here. Does he go to hell? No, he goes to a sort of hospital. That is a gray and very unhappy, unpleasant sort of place. He must remain there, however, until his own voluntary acts show him fit for the other plane. It is simple and beautiful. But it is not materialistic."

That is what Sir Arthur is going to teach here. His lecture tour, or raid, is not for money, he claims. Whatever he gets, goes to the cause, although he admits he probably will take it away from the United States because he "already have all the money in the world."

Sir Arthur declared that the Church of England is adopting most of the tenets of spiritualism, although it cannot admit it. He said churchmen the world over are leaning that way in their services, because "there is nothing else they can do and be truthful."

Scoffs at Mediums.

Sir Arthur does not believe in so-called mediums who use silver or glass globes, and cards of various descriptions, weirdly moving tables, characterizing such things as "fakes." Spiritualism isn't that. Spiritualism, he explained, is the truth of philosophy and religion combined which cannot be escaped.

"I have many times spoken with my son, Kingsley Conan Doyle," he continued, "but that is not strange. I wanted to talk to him, he wanted to talk to me. We talked. Kingsley isn't dead—and it is interesting to note that from such seances the truth about the after life is becoming more and more apparent."

"Simplified spiritualism is merely a great white truth of the Bible and religion. It is pristine purity of thought and action combined. There is nothing mysterious about it. It is clear and open. All you have to do is to think of a life after death, a life of enviable beauty—and realize that there can be no fear of death because with spiritualism you know exactly what is going to happen to you."

"Will Vivify Religion."

"Far from being antagonistic to religion, this psychic movement is destined to vivify religion, which has long been decaying and becoming a mere formality. This new knowledge makes it real and sure, and enables one for the first time to understand the actions and views of the early Christians and of their great founders. Without this psychic knowledge, much of the new testament is incomprehensible. With it one has renewed assurance of its essential truth."

"It unites real science and real religion, each supporting the other."

Sir Arthur and his family will be in America three months. They will visit Philadelphia, Boston, Washington, St. Louis, Chicago, and possibly other cities. Sir Arthur does not intend to seek to organize spiritualism in this country, he said, but merely to explain it.

HOME WRECKING LAID TO PSYCHOANALYSIS

Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Godfrey, who have parted and whose separation the husband thinks was "suggested" by a lecture of psychoanalysis.

BY ALEXANDER HERMAN
Bridgeport, Conn., April 14.—For the first time psychoanalysis is charged with breaking up a home.

Jonathan Godfrey blames a lecture on "The Unconscious Mind" by Frederick Pierce for suggesting the mental processes which resulted in his wife, Estelle Mudge Godfrey, leaving him.

Godfrey is 66 and a multimillionaire. His wife is 21. They were married three years ago. They agree in stating they have separated because they found it impossible to bridge the gap of 45 years difference in age.

Andre Tridon, the French psychoanalyst, after studying the case said it was a case of "father fixation." That is, the girl merely had transferred to Godfrey the affection she had felt for her father. Godfrey and the father had been close friends. "Such attractions cannot make happy marriages," says Tridon.

Shortly before their separation, the Godfreys had attended the lecture by Pierce, at the Contemporary Club. This lecture followed closely the line of thought in Pierce's new book "Our Unconscious Mind," published by E. P. Dutton & Co. Pierce writes as follows:

"Everyone is in greater or less degree suggestible."

"The tendency of an idea is to become translated into action."

"We cannot will ourselves to love, to hate, to be afraid. The harder we will ourselves to love the more definitely we shall not love. There is, in reality a conflict of two ideas: 'I love,' and 'I do not love.' Of these the true one is always the idea in

SHOULD RETURN McCUMBER

PRESTIGE GAINED THROUGH YEARS OF SERVICE SHOULD NOT BE THROWN AWAY

By Arthur W. Dunn

As a resident of North Dakota when it was a part of the biggest territory, as a man who never lost his interest in that fair land between the Red River and the Montana line, I want to express the hope that the state will re-elect Senator Porter J. McCumber. It is because of my pride in the West and the satisfaction I have in seeing a western man a recognized leader in the nation that I desire to see McCumber returned for another term. North Dakota went on the map when her able senator became chairman of the Finance Committee of the United States Senate. McCumber had won his place in the Senate long before his recent advancement made him a leader. A ready debater, a man who thoroughly prepared himself and understood the subjects he discussed, he has always been heard in the Senate when he had anything to say. But always he has been more than a man who makes a creditable speech, and who is able to meet any man in debate. He has been a constructive legislator. By that I mean a man who has prepared and had enacted into law legislation of a beneficial character. Another thing I like about McCumber is his ever ready and successful championships of anything that was for the good of his state or the great West of which it is a part.

From a long period of observation, covering a third of a century at Washington, I have become a great believer in the wisdom of continuing men in Congress. This is important as to both Houses, but more particularly applicable to the Senate, where long service means prominence and power. First, get good men; then keep them as long as they render good service. If they are the right kind of men they get better all the time. They learn more year by year, but, what is of greater importance, they become more and more influential as they are returned term after term by their constituents. These senators of long service become national figures; they are known from one end of the country to another; they make their states and their people better known throughout the country.

Two factors of prime importance make the influence of a man in Congress, ability and length of service. Both are necessary in making a successful legislator; alone neither will insure a man such a position as to enable him to wield a power beneficial to the nation and his state. Power in Congress is lodged largely in the committees, and custom has made the chairman of the committee

most important in its deliberations and conducting of this year. In the past 40 years there have been only six chairmen of that committee; two Democrats and four Republicans. There are 48 states in the Union. Figure out by percentages what chance a man entering the Senate on March 4, 1923, will have of becoming chairman of the finance committee, or any other important committee for that matter. One of the Democrats was chairman only two years and the other was chairman six years. Previous to the time that Senator McCumber became chairman three Republicans had been at the head of the finance committee for more than 30 years. What about these three? One served more than 31 years in the Senate and died; one served 30 years and voluntarily retired; one served nearly 25 years and died. Senator McCumber was a member of the Senate 23 years before he became chairman. These facts show that it takes a man of long service to get to the top of the most important committee in the United States Senate.

This is the first time that a man from the West has been chairman of the committee on finance. As a western man I hope that the West will hold that position for years to come. North Dakota owes it to the balance of the great West to keep her Senator in this place of advantage. It is good for the West, and the whole country, to have a man whose ideas have been broadened by western life, whose conception of what our country has grown to be is measured by a life lived in the West, at the head of a committee that handles legislation of such vast importance, particularly to that section whose resources are still in the early stages of development.

The two most powerful committees in the Senate are finance and appropriations. It is an interesting fact that these committees are now presided over by men from the new states. By "new states" I mean states that were territories when I lived in the great West. The "new states" have achieved their distinction because they wisely kept their men in the Senate.

Only a close observer of legislative conditions is aware of the importance to a state in length of service and good committee positions. The men who get places on the big committees, the real important committees, do so by sheer force and by their compelling ability. Seniority of service, coupled with good brains, wield such an influence in the Senate that good committee assignments are made. That same influence extends over the Senate whenever a man wants something of the legislative body. As an instance, take the appropriation which Senator McCumber secured for seed to be distributed in North Dakota. If he had not been a power in the Senate he could not have put the bill through; by reason of the fact that he was chairman of the Senate finance committee his influence extended to the House of Representatives. But for that influence the bill would not have been passed. He called up the House leaders and told them the bill must pass, and it was passed. That is what happens when a man wants something for his state. The leaders know each other. The House leaders recognized the power of the chairman of the finance committee and acted accordingly.

I want to go a little further in showing what long service does for states and sections. When I first went to Washington, New England dominated Congress. Nearly all her men in both houses were of long service. At one time in the Senate, Maine had the President pro tempore, and chairmanship of commerce and naval affairs; Massachusetts chairman of judiciary; Connecticut chairman of military affairs and Indian affairs; Vermont chairman of finance; Rhode Island chairman of rules. At the same time their men who were not chairmen held positions on dominating business committees of the Senate. In the House, Maine had the speaker-ship, then the second place of power in the nation, chairman of ways and means, naval affairs and public buildings and grounds. The other New England states had their representatives in the most important committees in years when Democrats are in control. The South, by reason of keeping men continuously in service, has all the important chairmanships and dominating places on committees. These men had ability or they could have been leaders. They were honest or they would have been forced out of public life. They had standing at home or they would not have been elected or retained in office.

What I want to impress upon the people of North Dakota is that they have shown a proud position through their senator. Unless he has done he has failed the people, he should not something to deserve defeat, unless he is retired at a time when he has reached a position where he is valuable to the nation and useful to his state.

MANDAN NEWS

Kopp Home Is Raided Again

John Kopp laborer, resident in the Dagtown district, was raided yesterday morning for the fourth time. He was placed under arrest yesterday afternoon on charges of manufacturing intoxicating liquor.

The home of Matt Zander, formerly on the night police force of the city of Mandan, was also raided and a complete still, two gallons of home brew, and other appurtenances to the moonshine business were seized. Zander lives in the Syndicate near the fair grounds.

The raids were carried out by State's Attorney L. H. Connolly, Deputy Sheriff Gabe Eckroth and two U. S. prohibition agents.

John Kopp, who again is in the toils, has been raided three times previously on charges of violation of the liquor laws.

At the last term of the federal court at Bismarck, John Kopp and his son Tom Kopp were arraigned. Both pleaded guilty and the father was fined $25.00 and the son $10.00 for moonshining.

Six weeks later they were again preparing to brew the stuff that passes for liquor under these days of Prohibition, according to the state's attorney, who cites the two barrels of mash seized as conclusive evidence.

ALL IN A NUTSHELL
The Grand Forks Herald has summed up very succinctly just what the election of a new and untried representative in the senate for North Dakota would mean. They have applied the unanswerable argument to the possible election of Lynn J. Frazier and the excerpt follows:
"For the rest of it, Mr. Frazier would be placed at the bottom of a few committees—not too many, and not too important. He might be about seventh man on the committee to dispose of waste papers. His measure would be taken very soon, and very accurately, and he would find himself snugly placed among a number of pleasant gentlemen who would see that he did no harm."

Such would be the case for years of any man supplanting Senator McCumber as United States senator. While the Grand Forks Herald is insisting upon McCumber's scalp, it inadvertently gives one of the best possible arguments for the return of Senator McCumber by an overwhelming majority on the part of the republicans of North Dakota to that end also that a united front can be had in June against state socialism.

YOUR PRISON WALLS
Man, by mechanically stimulating his sense, is steadily shoving away the walls with which nature originally imprisoned him.
The first men on earth could see only as far as their eyes would carry.
When the sun went down and darkness descended, or when they entered a cave, their power of sight was almost obliterated. To overcome this, man extended the sense of sight by inventing portable fire—first firebrands, later candles, kerosene lamps and now the electric light.
The power of sight has further been extended by the invention of spectacles, field glasses, telescopes, magnifying glasses, camera and moving picture.
Tonight, for instance, you go to a movie and, in a news-reel, as good as see something that may have happened 12,000 or more miles away.
A telescope is being built, which, it is claimed, will bring the moon within 20 miles of the earth.
Extending the weak hearing powers of the human ear, we have ear trumpets, megaphones, telephone, telegraph—and, finally, the wireless.
Stand on a corner in dead of night and you cannot hear a man talking two blocks away. Yet, using a peculiar arrangement of metals and chemicals (radiophone), you hear people thousands of miles away as clearly as if they were in the same room with you.

Man's sense of feeling is being intensified by the strain of civilization, especially in factories and cities.
The bedlam of modern life is making us more susceptible to pain, by putting our nerves on edge. That's one reason we are not as "brave" as the ancient Spartans. Nerve strain frequently leads to Beard's disease—neurasthenia, a highly-strung condition in which the patient is conscious of nearly every nerve in his body.
In South American ports, it is said natives can tell, by sense of smell, whether it's an European, negro or Chinese that has alighted from a boat.
All men once were like that. Now most of us have lost the sense of smell except for violent odors like limburger.
The sense of taste, too, is less powerful than of old.
Prospect is that man, when his civilization matures, will almost entirely have lost his senses of taste and smell, with the three other senses developed artificially to an uncanny degree.

GOLD IN TRADE
Wall street, constantly surveying all sources of riches, finds that the world last year mined 15,502,806 ounces of gold, worth around $320,000,000.
As far as actual utility is concerned, this gold was about the most useless substance produced by man in 1921.
It continues "valuable," however, a constant reminder of man's fear that his fellows are dishonest—will not live up to their obligations unless bound by a gold mortgage. Even the Chinese, instinctively honest, worship gold and its weakening brother, silver.
Later, when all men become 100 per cent honest, there will be no incentive for mining gold, except for plugging teeth.

PORTERS
The conductor of the first Pullman car, which made its initial trip in 1857, was J. L. Barnes.
Years later, in Chanute, Kan., he recalled how the crude berths had to be made up with hatchets and nails.
Also, how the porter showed up next morning with a tip-inviting whisk broom, proving that certain instincts are born in the blood.

SMALLEST BABY
A baby weighing only two pounds and one ounce is born in a New York hospital. It is described as the smallest perfectly formed normal baby on record.
This baby's diminutive size is due to some peculiarity of its pituitary gland, a pea-sized lump of tissue at the base of the brain.
That is knowledge that has been discovered within the last few years. Gradually we are learning about that much intricate of all machines, the human body.

BOOTLEG PROFITS
Liquor, shipped to foreign countries for storage on the eve of national prohibition, is gradually being brought back, some by smugglers, some through legitimate channels.
The total of this liquor is worth $300,000,000 in the legitimate market, $1,000,000,000 if handled by bootleggers, says John D. Appleby, general prohibition agent in the New York and New Jersey district.
At this rate, the bootlegging system takes 233 per cent profits for the risk it runs. This reduces bootlegging to a mathematical basis, operating on the law of averages.

LUXURY
It is 109 years since Christopher Columbus Blackett, coal man in England, started the world's first steam railroad with a steam engine hauling a train of cars on wooden rails surfaced with steel strips.
It was 44 years later before luxury was introduced in railroading. Sept. 1, 1857, the first Pullman car ran between Bloomington, Ill., and Chicago.
Today, with airplane in its infancy, we have flying Pullmans. Ours is an age of comfort. Crude useful devices are whipped into artistic and luxurious form almost overnight.

WHAT HAS LUCK IN STORE
C. K. Nelson, inventor of the Eskimo pie, is said to be getting $30,000 a week from his simple idea of coating a block of ice cream with a thin layer of hardened chocolate.
He gets his money by selling to ice cream manufacturers the right to make Eskimo pies at a royalty of five cents a dozen.
Nelson sits in his office, with an army of checkers on the road, counting his money.
He makes a million every eight months. Not as much as Henry Ford or John D. But Nelson is the son of a village confectioner at Onawa, Ia., and a year or so ago he had no idea that vast riches were in store for him.
Fortunately, there is such a thing as luck—chance. The lure keeps many working at top speed who otherwise might become discouraged. Nature knows how to handle us.

EDITORIAL REVIEW
Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.
WASHINGTON PASTIMES
Senator Norris, in a speech evidently delivered for consumption out in the great free open spaces of the West, expresses the fear that Mr. Chief Justice Taft is treading the primrose path. It appears that he "dines out somewhere every night," if the Senator may be believed. Further, Mr. Norris lays it down that no man can "stick his legs under the tables of the idle rich every night and be fit the next day to sit in judgment on those who toil. Honest though he may be, it will get him in the end."
What can we do about it? We might adopt a constitutional amendment condemning Mr. Taft to eat at home, or providing that he demand a certificate from his host each evening that all persons present have done some toil in the course of the day. Senator Norris offers no remedy; thought he remarks darkly that the time will come when Washingtonians "will not be dining out in high social fashion every night," and that even when they do attend "social and friendly dinners" the women present will wear "dresses that come up to their necks and extend downward below their knees." The Senator has sketched out a big job for himself in reforming the dress of the citizens of Washington; if he can succeed in putting through a measure standardizing the dinner gown, he will have made his name immortal.
Meanwhile, he might go a little lighter on Mr. Taft. Dining out is pretty nearly the only amusement in Washington. Those who care for vaudeville, like Mr. Wilson, can find something to do besides sticking their legs under the tables of the idle rich; but persons of more severe taste are apt to find that the night life of Washington offers no alternative to dining out, except dining in. If night sessions of the Senate were more frequent, the populace might get a little amusement out of listening to the speeches; but as it is, dining out is the only sport available for most residents of Washington.—New York Times.

If Winter Comes

619 1/2 ASH HUTCHINSON

BEGIN HERE TODAY.
In the summer of 1914, MARK SABRE finds that he is estranged from human sympathy and understanding with the sole exception of LADY NONA TYBAR, an old sweet heart, now unhappily married. Sabre's poetic and sibilant wife, MABEL, fails to understand her husband's poetic and sibilant temperament. In business he is determined by jealous associates in the firm of Fortune, East and Sabre, and a promised partnership is diverted from him to TWYNING. At this point, Nona's life with Tybar is intolerable and she asks Sabre to take her away. War is declared and Sabre rushes to inform his wife.

GO ON WITH THE STORY
She echoed the word, "War?" "Yes, declared war." He was breathless, panting. She said, "Good gracious! Whatever will happen? Have you brought an evening paper?" Do you know the papers didn't come this morning? "No, I didn't wait," he simply rushed away. He was close to her. He took her hands. "I say, Mabel, it's war!" His emotions were tumultuous and extraordinary. He wanted to draw her to him and kiss her. They had not kissed for longer than he could have remembered; but now he held her hands hard and desired to kiss her. "I say, it's war." She gave her sudden burst of laughter. "You are excited. I've never seen you so excited. Your collar's undone." He dropped her hands. He said rather stupidly, "Well, it's war, you know," and stood there. She turned to her dressing table. "Well, I do wish you'd stayed for a paper."

II
Lying awake he thought of Nona. He had not written the letter to her. The appointed day was past and he had not written. He would have said, during that unutterable darkness in which he had awaited it, that not the turning of the world upside down would have prevented him writing; but the world had turned upside down. It was not a board Pike's men had swung around in that appalling moment when he had watched them appear on the balcony. It was the accustomed and imponderable world, awfully unbalanced. Nona would understand. Nona always understood everything. He wondered how she had maintained this terrific day. He was assured that she knew. She would have felt just as he had felt. He thought, with a most passionate longing for her, that he would have given anything to have been able to turn to her when he had exclaimed, "My God, war," and to have caught her hands and looked into her beautiful face. Tomorrow he would send the letter. "Tomorrow?" Why, yes, today, like all today in the removal and placid light of all tomorrow, would be shown speedily hectic. Ten to one something would have happened in the night to make today look foolish.

III
When he went down into Tidborough in the morning it was to know at once that this tomorrow gave no ill to its precedent day. It intensified it. The previous day foreshadowed war. The new day presented it. He went into the office. The afternoon post had brought letters to his desk. He turned them over without interest then caught up one from Nona. "Maiko, this frightful war! I have thanked God in my knees for you the last week you prevented me. If I had done it with this! Tony has rejoined the Guards, he was in the Reserve of Officers. And you see that whatever has been, and is, dear, he's my man to stand by in this Maiko. It would have been too awful if I couldn't and I thank God for you, again and again and again.—Nona."
CHAPTER IV
The enormous and imponderable world awfully unbalanced. Upset down. Extraordinarily unreal. Furiously real.
Life, which had been a thing of ovens in which there was no time, only events.
Things began one day very shortly after the declaration of war when, passing the barracks on his way home, Sabre was accosted and taken into the Mess by Cottar, a subaltern of the Pinks.
"You must come along in and have a cup of tea," young Cottar urged. "We've got a hell of a jamboree on. At least we shall have tonight. We're just working up for it. I can't tell you why. You can guess."
Sabre felt a sudden catch at his emotions. "Is the regiment going?"
They were at the door of the anteroom. Cottar swung it open. The room was full of men and tobacco smoke and noise. A very tall youth, one Rakes, was standing on the table a glass in his hand. "Hullo, Sabre! Messman one of those very stiff whiskies for Mr. Sabre—go on Sabre, you must. Because—because he had no. Cottar's reluctance. He burst into song, waving his glass. "Because—"
"We shan't be here in the morning."
Otway came in. "Shut up you noisy young fools. What the—"
Sikes from the table. "Ah, Papa Otway! Three cheers for Papa Otway in very discreet whiskeys. Messman, one of those very stiff whiskies for Captain Otway."
Otway laughed pleasantly. "No chuck it. I'm not drinking. Hood, I want you, and you, Carmichael and you Puller." He saw Sabre and came to him. "Hullo, Sabre. You've heard now. We've managed to keep it pretty close, but it's all over the place now. Yes, we entrain at day-break."
Sabre felt frightfully affected. He could hardly speak.
The blessed gift in the war was to back. That's all right. Mother." And then on, jingling. Doo-da! Doo-da! Day!

The column passed and was gone. He could do nothing now. Four o'clock in the morning. But he must do something now. He followed to the station. The men were entraining. Presently his opportunity came in a sight of Colonel Rattray, who commanded the depot and was not going, standing for a minute alone. Sabre said, "I feel an extraordinarily embarrassed. I say, Colonel I want to get into this."

A Proclamation
Grant Centennial Day.
It is well for us to stop occasionally in our rush for self and pleasure, and reflect upon the lives of those in our nation's history, who by their strength and nobility of character, their clearness of vision, their devotion to duty, their sincerity of purpose and their great deeds have rendered signal service to our commonwealth. To do this is not only a pleasant privilege, but a sacred duty.
WHEREAS, we desire the memory of these noble men and women to live in the minds and hearts of all our people, and their time-honored character to be reproduced in the life of our people today, and especially to become a part of the character and life of the growing generation, and WHEREAS, Ulysses S. Grant, as a citizen, a soldier and a statesman, evidenced such appreciation of the ends and purposes to be attained, such an unswerving devotion to these ends, and such a determination in their realization; never sacrificing ideals or compromising principles, and hence has made his achievements a most signal contribution to the history of his country, and WHEREAS, ever since the close of that mighty conflict where he was the valiant, chieftain and mighty military leader, thousands of those who served under him, and who saw the first actuating him, and in their own lives and services to the nation have in so many ways given expression to the same ideals, are still with us, and still splendidly serving their beloved country.
NOW THEREFORE, I, R. A. NESTOS, Governor of the State of North Dakota, do hereby proclaim and set aside

THURSDAY APRIL 27, 1922
AS
and urge that upon this day the people of the state recall his services to his country, his firmness, integrity, patriotism and high sense of honor and resolve to exemplify in character and conduct the traits of character that won him the love of his countrymen and the adoration of all the world, to the end that in the solution of the many difficult and perplexing problems today we may have the assurance that they will be met and solved in the same enlightened, unselfish and unselfish way. Especially do I desire that all the schools of our state arrange appropriate exercises during the day wherein his character and achievements may be presented, and his memory honored by students in our state, and further that in all of the exercises of that day the members of the Grand Army of the Republic, who so splendidly sustained him in his great work be invited to participate, and shown the honor so justly due them also, while we revere his memory and pledge our unwavering loyalty to the ideals he exemplified.
DONE at the Capitol at Bismarck, this twelfth day of April A. D. 1922.
By the Governor:
THOMAS HAY, R. A. NESTOS, Secretary of State. Governor.

A Thought For Today
It is not good for man to be alone. Genesis 2:18.
Would we codify the laws that should reign in households, and whose daily transgression annoys and mortifies us, and degrades our household life, we must learn to adorn every day with sacrifices. Good manners are made up of petty sacrifices. Temperance, courage, love, are made up of the same jewels. Listen to every prompting of honor.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS
By Olive Barton Roberts
The red-feather pen flew out of Nick's pocket toward Cobalt Town and found its place in the wing of the furious falcon which guarded the gate to King Indig's Palace.
As Nancy and Nick came along the road queer people gazed at them curiously. They were the Diddyevers with the blue hair.
"Look," said one, poking his neighbor. "There are some strangers. Why do you suppose they are?"
"They must be important," came the answer, "or they couldn't have crossed the Seven Mountains. I wonder what the black thing is?"
"Let's go and ask."
When they heard that it was the record with Longhead's message a wild cheer arose. "Long live the Twins!" they shouted. "Long live King Indig and long live Princess Thermo!" "Long live everybody! We may have a queen soon!"
"But," said Nick, "we don't know what the record says. Longhead may have decided that Princess Thermo is to marry King Verdo with the green beard."
It seems that he couldn't have said a worse thing for instantly there was a hubbub. The Diddyevers began to act like crazy people. Their fury was terrible to see. It was like waving a red flag in front of a very cross bull.
"Traitors!" yelled the Diddyevers. "Talking about those awful Kork-knots!" And saying that the beautiful princess may marry their ugly king! "Ugh!"
Nancy hurried to pacify them in her nice way. "Oh," she smiled, "but wouldn't it be nice if she would marry your king?"
Instantly there was peace again. "Hear! Hear!" the Diddyevers cheered loudly. "That's the talk. Now we shall take you to King Indig, if the furious falcon will let you past the gate."

Made Big Trip
Mr. Henry Barthel of Hazen reached Bismarck Wednesday night on his way home from Flint, Michigan, driving a new Chevrolet 400 touring car. Tourist bureaus and garages all along the line told him the roads were impassable. In Wisconsin, tractors were being used to help cars through some sections of the road. In spite of these conditions the Chevrolet made the trip in just seven days over 1500 miles of road. Only once on the entire trip was it necessary to be pulled out of the mud. The gasoline average was over nineteen miles to the gallon. When Mr. Barthel left the Chevrolet factory at Flint, the sales department made him the same proposition given other purchasers making long trips at this time, namely that if he could break any part of the rear axle that a new assembly would be sent him gratis with a check for $50.00. So far no one has been able to collect.

Bismarck Boys
The Pioneers held their final indoor council last Monday night. The program for the spring and summer will be entirely an outdoor program. Saturday morning the boys will meet as usual but outside—all will meet at the high school. Saturday afternoon the older boys will meet at the base ball park, where Mr. O. W. Roberts will supervise the surveying of a quarter mile track and the laying out of the field for the various athletic events—it being the intention to have the ball park so equipped that during the Easter vacation the boys may have a proper place to practice and train for athletic events. During the Easter vacation the Pioneer boys will play base ball on Monday, Wednesday and Friday; on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday cross country hikes will be the order.
